IRELAND/WALES CROSS BORDER PROGRAMME (2014-2020)

Why co-operate with Wales?

Cross-border Cooperation = working with neighbours

Irish Sea: a substantial border that both regions have responsibility for – sea, shore & hinterland

Common issues affecting both areas: working together builds capacity, opportunities & added value to finding solutions

Irish perspective: facilitates access to the wider UK market & opens our universities/ IT's up to international collaboration opportunities

20 year history of successful Ireland Wales INTERREG collaboration & far longer history of cultural connections

Programme Priorities 2014-20

Priority 1: R&D and Innovation

Strengthening research, technological development and innovation

Priority 2: Climate Change Adaptation: promoting climate change adaptation, risk prevention and management

Priority 3: Utilisation of Cultural & Natural Resources and Heritage: protecting the environment and promoting resource efficiency

Priority 1 2014-20

R&D and Innovation: Strengthening research, technological development and innovation

Particular focus on increasing innovation within SMEs, including social enterprises, within shared priorities of the smart specialisation strategies.

Focus on the “test” or “development” phases of innovation

Focussing on activities and sectors where there is complementarity between the expertise in both areas, including:

- Marine & environmental sciences
- Food & drink
- Life sciences

Priority 2 2014-20

Climate Change Adaptation: promoting climate change adaptation, risk prevention and management

Building knowledge about specific impacts of climate change on the Irish Sea

Impacts of climate change on coastal communities and the hinterland

Research, shared expertise, monitoring impacts & raising awareness about climate change

Building on the successes of the 07-13 Programme

Priority 3 2014-20

Utilisation of Cultural & Natural Resources and Heritage: protecting the environment and promoting resource efficiency

Building on the successes of the 07-13 programme's projects which addressed the marine environment from a community perspective

Exploring economic potential of sustainably harnessing our natural & cultural resources

Regenerating local economies through community engagement

Activities to be Supported

More limited, focused and concentrated – maximising impact of projects

Contribute to finding solutions to the challenges identified for the cross-border area – Cooperation Programme document (to be published)

Have a greater focus on measurable outcomes and results – set at Programme & European-level this time

Opportunities to pilot, test activity which can feed into Irish and Welsh regional programmes – platform for wider collaboration and regional development
